Insurance sector open for 100% FDI

LIC cap stays 20%, tighter rules apply for investors linked to China, Hong Kong under automatic route

NEW DELHI

The Centre on Saturday notified 100% Foreign Direct Investment (FDI) in insurance companies under the automatic route, permitting wider participation from overseas investors.

"Foreign investment in this sector shall be subject to compliance with the provisions of the Insurance Act, 1938(4 of 1938), and the condition that Companies receiving FDI shall obtain necessary licence or approval from the Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India for undertaking insurance and related activities," reads the notification.

However, the framework for Life Insurance Corporation of India (LIC) will be separate, with foreign investment capped at 20 per cent under the automatic route.

"Foreign investment in LIC shall be subject to compliance with the provisions of the Life Insurance Corporation Act, 1956 (31 of 1956), and such other provisions of the Insurance Act, 1938 (4 of 1938), as are applicable to LIC as per the provisions of section 43 of the Life Insurance Corporation Act, 1956 (31 of 1956)."

Further, the rules mandate that at least one of the chairperson of the board, managing director, or chief executive officer must be an Indian resident citizen in an Indian insurance company with foreign investment.

Insurance intermediaries including insurance brokers, reinsurance brokers, insurance consultants, corporate agents, third party administrator, Surveyors and Loss Assessors, managing general agents, insurance repositories and such other entities have also been permitted 100 per cent foreign investment under the automatic route.

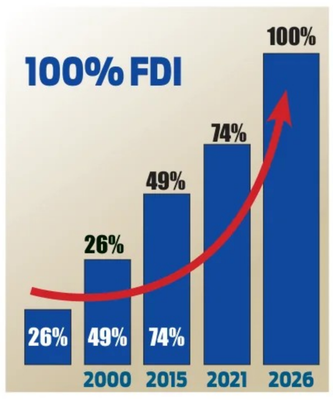
This comes after the Department for Promotion of Industry and Internal Trade (DPIIT) under the Commerce and Industry Ministry had already notified 100% FDI in the insurance sector in February.

In December 2025, Parliament passed the Sabka Bima Sabki Raksha (Amendment of Insurance Laws) Bill, 2025, which brought key changes to the insurance framework.

Evolution of FDI limits in insurance sector

India's insurance sector has witnessed a progressive relaxation of FDI norms over the past two decades:

- 2000: FDI up to 26% was permitted, marking the initial opening up of the sector to foreign investments.
- 2015: The FDI cap was increased to 49%, aiming to attract more foreign capital and expertise.
- 2021: The limit was further increased to 74%, providing foreign investors with greater control and encouraging deeper engagement.
- 2026: The latest policy change allows for 100% Foreign Direct Investment, enabling full ownership by foreign entities, provided that all policyholder premiums are invested within India.



What it means for the sector?

The move is expected to:

- Attract global insurers and long-term capital
- Increase competition and product innovation
- Improve insurance penetration, especially in underserved segments
- Strengthen the financial resilience of insurers
- At the same time, retaining a cap on LIC ensures the government continues to exercise control over a systemically important institution.

Reforms follow amendment to insurance laws

In December 2025, Parliament passed the Sabka Bima Sabki Raksha (Amendment of Insurance Laws) Bill, 2025, which brought key changes to the insurance framework. The legislation amended three major laws governing the sector — the Insurance Act, 1938, the Life Insurance Corporation Act, 1956, and the Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority Act, 1999.

What has changed in FDI rules?

The Centre, through a notification aligned with Press Note 1 (2026 Series), has permitted 100% FDI in insurance companies without prior government approval.

This effectively removes the earlier cap and allows global insurers to fully own Indian insurance ventures, easing entry barriers and enabling faster expansion of the sector.

Why LIC remains under a separate cap?

Despite broader liberalisation, LIC will continue to operate under a distinct framework with a cap of 20% under the automatic route, in line with provisions of the Life Insurance Corporation Act, 1956. The decision reflects the government's intent to retain strategic control over the country's largest insurer, which plays a critical role in financial stability and public savings.

Governance conditions for foreign-owned insurers

The new rules introduce a key safeguard: any insurance company with foreign investment must have at least one resident Indian citizen among its top leadership — chairperson, managing director or chief executive officer. Additionally, investments must comply with pricing and regulatory norms under FEMA and IRDAI guidelines.

Intermediaries also get 100% FDI

The reform extends beyond insurers to intermediaries. Entities such as brokers, reinsurance brokers, consultants, corporate agents, third-party administrators, surveyors and insurance repositories can now receive 100 per cent FDI under the automatic route. However, entities like banks acting as intermediaries will continue to follow sector-specific caps if insurance is not their primary business.

Dry spell: CM asks babus to ensure unbroken drinking water supply

BENGALURU

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah on Saturday said there is a possibility of a five per cent decrease in rainfall this year and asked officials to ensure that drinking water supply is not affected.

The CM gave these instructions at a meeting of additional chief secretaries, principal secretaries, and secretaries of all departments held at Vidhana Soudha.

"As there is a possibility of a five per cent decrease in rainfall this year, district in-charge secretaries should constantly monitor the drinking water situation in their districts.

Meetings should be held with deputy commissioners and zilla panchayat chief executive officers in this regard," the CM said.

"It is the responsibility of the respective secretaries to resolve the problems of the districts under their jurisdiction. Drinking water supply should not be affected for any reason," the Chief Minister said.

Siddaramaiah said the role of departmental secretaries is crucial for the proper functioning of the state administration, as recognised in the Constitution.

"It is the duty of all secretaries to act in accordance with the Constitution. They should not do anything against it," he said.

'Onus on officials to enact budget proposals'

The government made a total of 565 announcements in this year's budget, including 218 new ones. It is the responsibility of officials to implement all announcements within the same year. They should not remain unimplemented for any reason. Bring any practical difficulties in implementation directly to my notice or that of the chief secretary."

Out of the announcements in the 2026-27 budget, government orders have been issued for only five, he said. "All government orders should be implemented, and execution should begin by May; otherwise, the respective secretaries will be held responsible." Prefers not to strike Iran even as frustration mounts: Trump

WASHINGTON: US President Donald Trump expressed frustration with Iranian negotiations but stopped short of threatening to end the brittle ceasefire between the countries and order fresh airstrikes."They want to make a deal but I'm not satisfied with it," Trump said. "We just had a conversation with Iran. Let's see what happens. But I would say that I am not happy."Asked about the administration's options, he said that "on a human basis, I prefer not" to restart hostilities in a war that erupted with US and Israeli strikes on Iran in late February. Thousands of people have been killed across the Middle East, mostly in Iran and Lebanon, and energy prices have soared because of the blockage of the vital Strait of Hormuz.

Hotels assn demands GST cut on commercial LPG cylinders to 5%

BENGALURU

In the wake of the price of commercial LPG being hiked, Karnataka State Hotels Association (KSHA) on Saturday urged the government to immediately reduce the GST on 19 kg commercial LPG cylinders from 18% to 5%.

With the West Asia conflict still raging on, commercial 19-kg LPG cylinder prices were hiked by a record Rs 993 on Friday. KSHA president GK Shetty, in a statement, said the hike of Rs 1,308 in 60 days announced by the government (via oil marketing companies) is the sharpest increase in recent times.

Prices have risen from the roughly Rs 1,800 - Rs 2,000 range in March to Rs 3,100 plus now, he said, with the total increase ranging from 50 per cent to 70 per cent within 60 days, depending on the base city and timing. "If immediate corrective measures are not taken, businesses will have no option but to pass on the increased costs to consumers, making eating out more expensive and affecting overall demand," he said.

Highlighting that the hotel and restaurant industry was facing an unprecedented crisis triggered by global disruptions, Shetty said, the shortage of commercial LPG, coupled with steep price increases, has significantly escalated operational costs for hotels and eateries across the state.

'Extremely Severe Alert' buzzes phones nationwide

NEW DELHI

Mobile phones across India lit up with a loud alert tone on Saturday as the Centre conducted a nationwide test of its new disaster warning system, reassuring citizens that the message was only a drill.

The alert, marked "Extremely Severe Alert," was part of the official rollout of an indigenous Cell Broadcast-based emergency communication system designed to instantly notify people during disasters. Authorities clarified that no action was required from the public.

The system was launched by Union Home Minister Amit Shah and Union Communications Minister Jyotiraditya Scindia. Developed by Centre for Development of Telematics, the platform—named SACHET—operates on globally accepted alerting standards and is now active across all states and Union Territories.

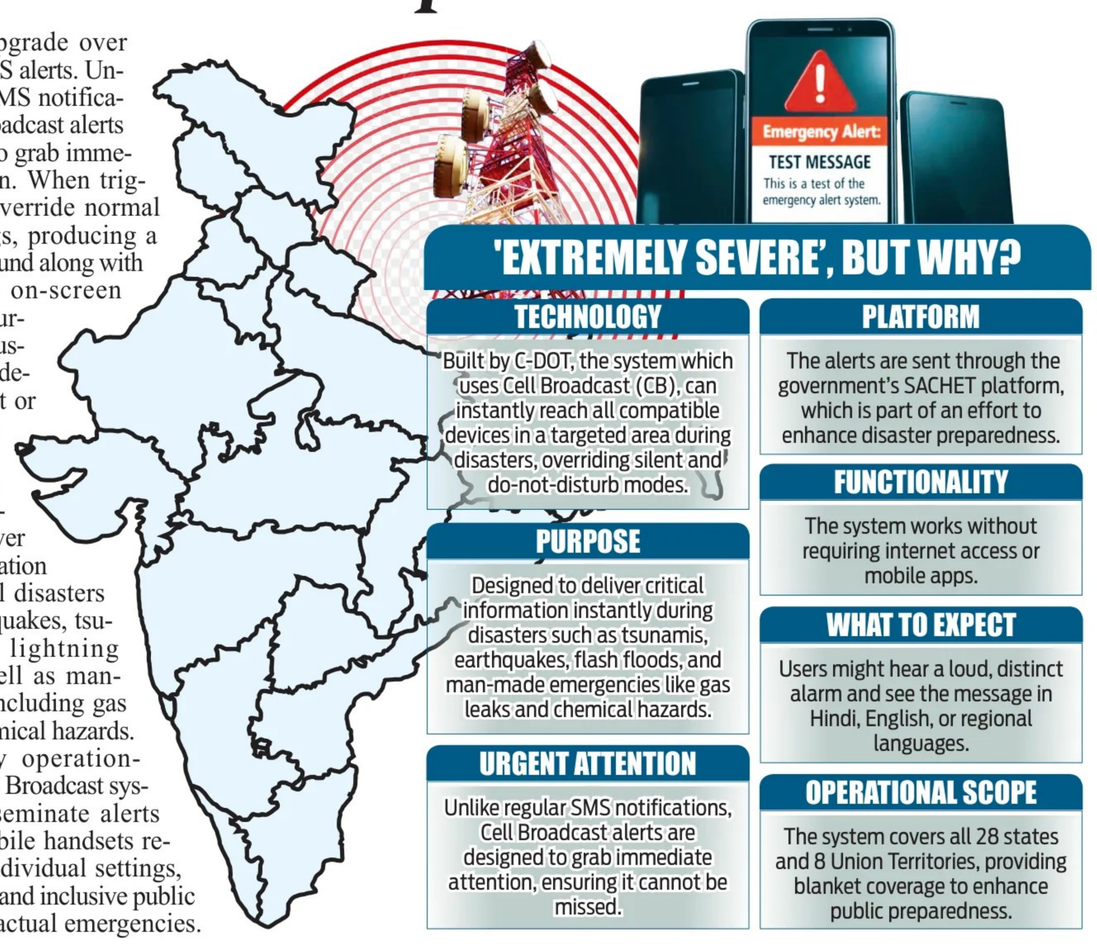
Designed to deliver critical information instantly during disasters or public safety emergencies, the system works without requiring internet access or mobile apps.

According to a government statement, at the core of the initiative is SACHET, an integrated alert platform developed by C-DOT and based on the international Common Alerting Protocol.

To date, disaster management authorities have used the system to send over 134 billion SMS alerts in more than 19 Indian languages during natural disasters, weather warnings, and cyclonic events.

The new Cell Broadcast technology represents a significant upgrade over traditional SMS alerts. Unlike regular SMS notifications, Cell Broadcast alerts are designed to grab immediate attention. When triggered, they override normal phone settings, producing a sharp alarm sound along with a prominent on-screen message, ensuring that even users with their devices on silent or do-not-disturb modes are notified. The system is designed to deliver critical information during natural disasters such as earthquakes, tsunamis, and lightning strikes, as well as man-made crises including gas leaks and chemical hazards.

Once fully operationalised, the Cell Broadcast system will disseminate alerts across all mobile handsets regardless of individual settings, ensuring wide and inclusive public reach during actual emergencies.



'EXTREMELY SEVERE', BUT WHY?

TECHNOLOGY
Built by C-DOT, the system which uses Cell Broadcast (CB), can instantly reach all compatible devices in a targeted area during disasters, overriding silent and do-not-disturb modes.

Four bin waste plan faces early trouble

BENGALURU
Government of India introduced the Solid Waste Management Rules 2026, requiring homes to separate waste into four types, but early challenges are already visible in Bengaluru. The system adds "special care waste" like bulbs and medicines to existing categories. Officials from Bangalore Solid Waste Management Limited say the city is preparing quickly, even though there is an 18-month timeline. However, residents and groups like Bangalore Apartment Federation raise concerns over high costs, unclear rules, and poor collection systems. New Bengaluru township to bring massive riches

The newly rebranded Greater Bengaluru Authority township is projected to generate over ₹15,000 crore in surplus for Karnataka's treasury.

BENGALURU

The Karnataka government is eyeing a massive financial windfall from the newly rebranded Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA) suburban township. Formerly known as the Bidadi satellite project, this ambitious urban expansion is expected to generate a staggering surplus of over ₹15,000 crore for the state's treasury.Official documents reveal that while the project will cost around ₹18,133 crore to build, the government expects to pull in total revenues of ₹33,562 crore. This money will come from selling developed land for industrial and commercial use, with prices expected to hover around ₹2,200 to ₹2,300 per square foot. The plan also includes earnings from property taxes and special building fees.To make the project a reality, the government is focusing on a fair deal for locals. Landowners who give up their property will receive over 18,000 residential and commercial sites as compensation. After setting aside these plots and mandatory green spaces, nearly half of the 7,814-acre area will be available for the government to develop and sell.The project has faced over a decade of delays, but officials are now pushing for a fast-track three-year completion goal. They argue that moving quickly is essential to prevent land costs from skyrocketing. With international consultants soon to be hired and major funding secured from banks and local authorities, the GBA township is set to become a primary engine for the city's growth. The government believes this modern hub will ease pressure on Bengaluru while padding the state's budget.

A sudden flash flood devastated Bengaluru's iconic Bookworm bookstore, but a passionate community rallied to help it recover.

Community rallies to save flooded famous bookstore

BENGALURU

A mere 40 minutes of heavy rain and hail turned a quiet evening into a disaster for Bookworm, one of Church Street's most iconic landmarks. The flash flood destroyed nearly 5,000 books, including rare 19th-century history volumes and vintage first editions.

Owner Krishna Gowda explained that while the shop had survived many monsoons over the last 20 years, the recent storm was different. Large hailstones blocked the building's drainage, causing water to surge nearly a foot deep into the store. Because the shop had recently stocked up for the summer holidays, thousands of books were stacked on the floor, leaving them vulnerable to the rising water.

The financial loss is estimated between ₹10 lakh and ₹14 lakh, but the cultural loss is even greater. However, the tragedy has sparked an incredible wave of support. High-profile authors like Ramachandra Guha, major publishers like Penguin, and even rival bookstore owners have stepped in to help.

The city's reading community has flooded the store, not just with messages, but with action. Many are buying "damp and soiled" books or gift coupons to help the shop recover. Gowda, moved by the response, has politely declined direct donations, asking supporters instead to simply buy a book. This overwhelming show of love proves that while the water may have ruined the paper, it couldn't dampen the spirit of Bengaluru's dedicated bibliophiles. The store remains resolute in its mission to bring the shelves back to life.

SC clears path for mega market

BENGALURU

Karnataka's plan to build a massive "Mega Krishi Market" in Bengaluru has finally received the green light from the Supreme Court.

Minister for Agriculture Marketing, Shivananda Patil, announced that the government has emerged victorious in three major legal battles that had stalled agricultural development for over three decades.

The most significant victory involves roughly 272 acres of land near Magadi Road.

This land acquisition had been trapped in litigation since 1994. While lower courts previously suggested the acquisition had "lapsed," a Supreme Court bench led by Justice B.V. Nagarathna upheld the government's right to the property.

This prime land, valued at hundreds of crores, will now be used to create a modern hub for farmers and traders.

City clears dangerous walls after fatal collapse

BENGALURU

Following the fatal Bowring Hospital wall collapse, the GBA has launched an urgent citywide safety drive to demolish dilapidated structures and clear hazardous storm-damaged trees.

Following the tragic collapse of a compound wall at Bowring Hospital that claimed seven lives earlier this week, the Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA) has launched a massive safety drive. Chief Commissioner Maheshwar Rao ordered the immediate removal of all dilapidated walls and buildings across the city that pose a threat to public safety.The crackdown began with demolition crews targeting several high-risk structures. On Binnymill Road, officials pulled down a massive 25-foot-high wall after a large section of it crumbled during recent storms. In Malleswaram, another 240-meter stretch of unsafe wall at the Mysore Lamps premises was razed to prevent a potential disaster.

The urgency comes after Deputy Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar directed the GBA to secure the city against worsening weather. Heavy rains on April 29 and May 1 have already wreaked havoc, uprooting 444 trees and snapping over 1,000 branches across various neighborhoods.

Maheshwar Rao has now instructed the commissioners of all five city corporations to form special task forces. these teams, including fire and police personnel, will patrol the streets to identify hazardous trees and weak structures before the next downpour.

"Our priority is to ensure that no more lives are lost to preventable accidents," Rao stated. With more heavy rain predicted in the coming days, the GBA is racing against time to clear hundreds of dangerous sites to protect residents from further untoward incidents.

Khandre defends poor against surging gas costs

BENGALURU

Karnataka's Minister for Forest and Environment, Eshwar Khandre, launched a blistering attack on the Central government, accusing the BJP of showing its "anti-poor colors" following a steep hike in commercial gas prices. His comments come just a day after oil marketing companies raised the price of a 19-kg commercial LPG cylinder by a historic ₹993.Speaking to reporters in the city, Khandre highlighted that the price of a single commercial cylinder has now crossed the ₹3,150 mark in Bengaluru.

GBA takes over urban land use control

BENGALURU

In a major relief for homeowners, the Karnataka High Court has ruled that Revenue Department officials no longer have the authority to issue notices or demolition orders for houses built on agricultural land within the city's limits. The ruling clarifies that such powers now belong strictly to the newly formed Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA). The decision came after a group of residents from Sainik Vihara Layout challenged a Tehsildar's order. The local official had demanded they clear their land, claiming it was being used for housing without being legally converted from agricultural use.

The residents argued that since their neighborhood falls under the city's urban jurisdiction, the traditional rural land laws should not apply to them.A division bench, led by Justice D.K. Singh and Justice T.M. Nadaf, agreed with the residents.

The court explained that once an area falls under the GBA, the Karnataka Land Revenue Act loses its grip. Even if the land is still listed as "agricultural" in old government records, only GBA officials can take action regarding building permissions or illegal constructions.This ruling effectively stops revenue officers from enforcing old land-use rules from the past decade.

Prioritize rule of law, CM tells secretaries

BENGALURU

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah issued a stern directive to state secretaries, urging them to prioritize the rule of law over political pressure. During a high-level meeting, the CM emphasized that the government's reputation rests on the integrity and agility of its top officials.

The Chief Minister warned that misleading the government or providing incorrect information is unacceptable. "Officials serve for decades, while representatives are here for five years," he noted, reminding secretaries of their duty to protect democratic values. He referenced Dr. B.R. Ambedkar's warnings, stating that straying from legal frameworks to please politicians could lead to a breakdown of the system.A major focus of the meeting was the slow implementation of budget promises. Siddaramaiah expressed frustration that 15 announcements from last year remain unfulfilled. He demanded that all 565 projects in the 2026-27 budget begin by the end of May. To ensure accountability, he stated that department secretaries would be held personally responsible for any further delays.The CM also addressed public grievances, noting that while thousands of applications have been cleared, nearly 2,000 are overdue. He ordered immediate action on these to maintain public trust. Additionally, with a predicted 5% dip in rainfall this year, he tasked district secretaries with monitoring drinking water supplies closely. He concluded by urging officials to fill thousands of vacant government posts quickly to keep the state's administration running smoothly.

KARNATAKA BUS STRIKE LOOMING: SERVICES TO HALT ON MAY 20

BENGALURU

Commuters across Karnataka are facing a major travel crisis as transport workers from all four state corporations announced a massive indefinite strike starting May 20. The standoff between the Joint Action Committee of Transport Employees and the state government has reached a breaking point after multiple rounds of failed negotiations.

Representing over 1.25 lakh employees from KSRTC, BMTC, NWKRTC, and KKRTC, union leaders stated that buses will stop plying from 6 a.m. on the deadline. The workers' frustration stems from long-pending financial grievances. Their core demands include a 25% hike in basic salary effective from January 2024, the immediate release of ₹1,272 crore in back pay, and the settlement of arrears dating back to the COVID-19 pandemic.

"We have reached a stage where we cannot survive without our dues," a union spokesperson said during a press conference. "The government is responsible for any hardship the public faces. This time, we aren't interested in more talks; we want a final settlement." The protest is expected to be total, with drivers, conductors, and mechanical staff all staying home.While the government has previously cited budget constraints for the delays, the transport unions have warned that they will not "touch the steering wheel" until their bank accounts show the promised funds. With less than three weeks to go, millions of daily passengers are now waiting to see if the government will blink first to avoid a complete paralysis of the state's transport lifeline.

SILK BOARD'S ELEVATED ESCAPE

Bengaluru's new double-decker flyover finally open for public

BENGALURU

Bengaluru commuters finally received a massive gift, as the long-awaited double-decker flyover between Central Silk Board and Ragigudda officially opened to traffic. The 3.5km elevated corridor, which cost ₹500 crore to build, promises to significantly slash travel time on one of the city's most congested routes.

Built by the Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Ltd as part of the new Yellow Line, the project is a marvel of modern engineering. It features a unique design where Metro trains will run on the upper level while cars and bikes use the road below.

This "two-in-one" approach is intended to tackle the infamous traffic bottlenecks at Silk Board, once known as the city's most dreaded junction.

Construction on this ambitious project began in 2017. While a small section was opened in 2024, the full stretch including five new ramps, is now fully operational. After a brief trial run last week to fix safety issues, authorities gave the green light for regular use.

While the flyover has already eased the pressure at Silk Board, traffic experts noted that congestion has shifted slightly toward the Ragigudda end.

To manage this, traffic police have introduced new one-way rules on nearby streets to keep vehicles moving smoothly. For thousands of daily travelers, this opening marks the end of a nearly decade-long wait for a faster, smoother commute through the heart of South Bengaluru.

Call for peace and compassion on Buddha Purnima

Kalaburagi marks Buddha Purnima with leaders calling for peace, equality, and adoption of Buddha's teachings in daily life.

KALABURAGI

The 2570th Vaishakh Buddha Purnima was observed with devotion at Siddhartha Buddha Vihar in the city, with a call to adopt Gautama Buddha's teachings of peace, compassion, and rational thinking.

The programme began with Buddha Vandana led by Bhanteji, with participation from devotees and dignitaries from various regions.

Delivering the keynote address, Prof Purushottama Bilimale said Buddha's teachings should not be limited to rituals but must be practiced in daily life.

He said Buddha introduced a scientific and knowledge-based approach during the 5th–6th century BCE, offering a new direction to society during a period of ideological transition in India.

He added that Dr B.R .Ambedkar later institutionalised Buddha's progressive ideas through the Indian Constitution. He stressed the need to adopt humanistic values, equality, and rational thinking for societal progress.

Prof Bilimale also highlighted India's tradition of compassion and said Buddhism has strengthened the values of humanity and empathy over centuries.

Presiding over the event, AICC President Mallikarjun Kharge said Buddha's teachings remain highly relevant in today's world and promote global peace. He said the ideas of Buddha, Basavanna, and Ambedkar must be widely propagated. He added that religion should serve human upliftment and said India's unity is strengthened by the Constitution, which guarantees fundamental rights. He also noted that Buddha's Dhamma is reflected in the Ashoka Chakra of the national flag.

Several ministers, MLAs, MLCs, and community leaders attended the programme, which concluded with messages promoting equality, peace, and social harmony.

Vijayapura govt committed to all-round development

VIJAYAPURA

Minister M. B.Patil said the state government is committed to the overall development of all sections of society and is focusing on strengthening health, education, and infrastructure across Karnataka.

He was speaking after inaugurating a newly upgraded 30-bed Community Health Centre and a new Town Panchayat office building at Devar Hipparagi in Vijayapura district on Saturday. Patil said the government, under Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, has implemented five guarantee schemes that have significantly supported people's livelihoods over the past three years. He said the schemes are designed with a focus on inclusive welfare and financial stability for all sections of society.

He added that Vijayapura district, which earlier faced acute drinking water shortages during summer, has seen improvement in groundwater levels due to irrigation projects and initiatives like the Koti Vriksha Abhiyan. He said these efforts have helped increase greenery and reduce water scarcity.

The minister said officials have been instructed to conserve water in reservoirs to ensure adequate supply for both people and livestock during summer. VIJAYAPURA

State Large and Medium Industries and District In-charge Minister M.B. He stated that the project has significantly improved water storage, recharge, and availability for agriculture and drinking purposes across several taluks.

Speaking at a review meeting on ongoing irrigation and water conservation works, the minister said that Karnataka has prioritised rejuvenation of lakes and filling of tanks as a long-term solution to recurring drought conditions. He noted that Vijayapura, once known for severe water scarcity, is now witnessing improved groundwater levels due to systematic implementation of irrigation and lift water schemes.

PM AWAS IRREGULARITIES

PM Awas Yojana faces irregularity allegations

KALABURAGI

Serious allegations of irregularities have surfaced in the implementation of the Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana in Jewargi taluk, where houses meant for economically weaker sections remain incomplete even after three years.

The scheme, aimed at providing affordable housing, was expected to benefit hundreds of families.

However, beneficiaries allege delays, poor-quality construction, and mismanagement, forcing many to continue living in rented houses or temporary shelters after demolishing their old homes.

According to reports, around 750 houses were sanctioned under the Karnataka Slum Development Board.

While funds were reportedly released, several units remain incomplete, leading to accusations of negligence by contractors and officials.

Bhima Army leader Vishwaradhya Gopalkar alleged large-scale financial irregularities, including inflated billing for construction materials such as sand, cement, and concrete.

He claimed contractors are overcharging and showing inflated costs in official records while supplying inadequate materials.

Beneficiaries further alleged that they are being forced to bear additional expenses such as labour and construction costs, despite the scheme promising complete housing support. Many families say they have taken loans to continue construction work.

Several beneficiaries said they were initially assured fully constructed houses, prompting them to demolish their existing homes.

Later, they were allegedly told to complete construction themselves with limited financial assistance, leading to severe hardship.

Residents also alleged lack of response from officials despite repeated complaints. Some said they have been living in unsafe conditions for years, facing health and safety risks.

Beneficiaries have demanded a high-level inquiry, including a probe by the Lokayukta, and strict action against those responsible.

They also urged immediate completion of pending houses to ensure relief for affected families.

Former MLA A S Patil Nadahalli said Yediyurappa played a key role in building the BJP organisation from the grassroots level and remains respected across communities. He described the felicitation as a major event for party workers.

The court quashed a dismissal order by the Mangalore Electricity Supply Company (MESCOM), ruling that being in prison is an "unavoidable situation" and cannot be treated as a voluntary resignation.

The workers, Gopalakrishna and Ashok Kumar, were temporary "gangmen" who were arrested in 2005. INFORMATION COMMISSION RECORD

Karnataka RTI Commission clears record 40k appeals

VIJAYAPURA

The Karnataka Right to Information Commission said it has disposed of 40 thousand second appeal cases in the last one year, marking a record performance in the country. Commissioners Rudranna Hartikote, Rajashekar S, and Belgaum Bench Information Commissioner Prakash Narayan Channal shared this at a press conference in Vijayapura after a training workshop for public information officers. They said the commission is hearing 40 to 60 applications daily in the Belagavi bench through both online and offline modes.

Officials said more focus is given to rural applications related to drinking water, roads, electricity, health and cleanliness issues. They added that action is taken against officers who fail to provide information, including fines, penalties and disciplinary recommendations. Commissioner Prakash Narayan Channal said workshops are being held across districts to improve awareness and reduce delays in RTI responses. He said the Belagavi bench plans to resolve about 6000 to 7000 cases every year through faster processing and monitoring. The commission has also imposed fines worth Rs 42.32 lakh so far for violations of RTI rules. In Vijayapura district alone, Rs 6.50 lakh fine has been collected from officials for non compliance. Commissioners said earlier nearly 59000 applications were pending but most have now been cleared after reforms. They instructed government offices to display RTI boards and respond quickly to first appeal requests from citizens. Officials warned that delay in providing information may lead to daily fines up to Rs 250 per day. They said maximum penalty can reach Rs 25000 along with disciplinary action against negligent officers.

Cong confident of forming next govt in Assam: Gogoi

Congress leaders expressed confidence after meeting alliance partners and dismissed exit polls predicting a BJP sweep

GUWAHATI

Senior Congress observers DK Shivakumar, Bhupesh Baghel and Jitendra Singh met alliance leaders in Guwahati on Saturday before the Assam Assembly election results on May 4.

Congress has formed an alliance with Raijor Dal, Assam Jatiya Parishad, CPI(M), APHLC and CPI(ML) to challenge the ruling BJP-led NDA.

Assam Congress president Gaurav Gogoi said the alliance partners were united and confident of forming the next government. He claimed farmers, women and young voters supported the opposition alliance for change in the state. Gogoi also asked party workers to closely monitor strong rooms and remain prepared for counting day arrangements.

Rejecting the exit polls predicting a comfortable BJP victory, Gogoi alleged that the ruling party was trying to influence public opinion by creating a false atmosphere before the results. He said the alliance would not fall into such a trap and remained fully focused on protecting votes during counting.

Karnataka Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar also dismissed the exit poll predictions. He claimed many voters were afraid to openly express their political opinions because of pressure from the ruling party. Shivakumar said Congress conducted its own internal survey and remained confident about winning the election.

He further claimed that some BJP leaders, including candidates and ministers, had privately approached Congress leaders after losing confidence about their chances in the election.

Several exit polls predicted another victory for the BJP-led NDA in Assam. Axis My India projected between 88 and 100 seats for the alliance, while the Congress-led bloc was expected to win between 24 and 36 seats. Other surveys by JVC and Matrize also forecast an advantage for the ruling alliance before counting begins Monday morning.

Ban cigarettes for those born after 2009: Anbumani

CHENNAI

PMK leader Anbumani Ramadoss on Saturday appealed to Prime Minister Narendra Modi to introduce a law banning the sale of cigarettes and tobacco products to people born on or after January 1, 2009.

He said the move would help create a smoke-free generation in India and protect young people from tobacco addiction.

In a letter to the Prime Minister, Anbumani said tobacco use continues to pose a serious public health threat across the country. The former Union Health Minister stated that millions of Indians, especially youth, are affected by smoking and other tobacco-related habits.

Citing global health estimates, he said around 267 million Indians currently use tobacco products, which means nearly one in every five citizens is affected. According to him, tobacco consumption directly causes more than 1.35 million deaths every year, while exposure to second-hand smoke increases the annual death toll to nearly 2.3 million.

Anbumani pointed out that tobacco is one of the leading causes of cancer and several non-communicable diseases, including heart problems and chronic respiratory illnesses. He claimed tobacco-related cancers alone account for over 4.7 lakh deaths annually in India and contribute to nearly half of all cancer cases reported in the country.

The PMK leader urged the Union government to consider introducing a law similar to the United Kingdom's proposed tobacco policy. He said a generational ban would gradually eliminate tobacco use in India and significantly improve public health in future decades.

RG attacks BJP over remarks against Geniben Thakor

NEW DELHI

The Congress leader criticised the ruling party after Gujarat BJP president Jagdish Vishwakarma allegedly made indecent comments during a public meeting in Palanpur.

Gandhi said the remarks exposed the reality behind the BJP's repeated claims of respecting women through its 'Nari Vandana' campaign. In a post on X, he accused the BJP of carrying a "Manuvadi" and anti-woman mindset that cannot tolerate women questioning authority.

He also reminded Prime Minister Narendra Modi about his earlier statement that women never forget insults against them. The controversy began after Vishwakarma told party workers that women in Gujarat would politically defeat Geniben Thakor and take away seats from her stronghold.

Congress leaders strongly objected to the remarks and claimed they insulted not only Thakor but women across the country.

The political row comes soon after the Lok Sabha failed to pass the 131st Constitutional Amendment Bill on women's reservation.

The proposed law aimed to speed up implementation of the 33 percent reservation for women before the 2029 general elections. However, the bill failed after the government could not secure the required two-thirds majority in Parliament.

Rahul Gandhi and Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge had opposed the bill, calling it politically motivated and unfair to southern states. They argued the proposal linked women's reservation with a future delimitation process that could change parliamentary representation between states.

He accused BJP leaders of promoting anti-women politics after controversial remarks targeting Geniben Thakor

The government received 298 votes in favour and 230 against, falling fifty-four votes short of approval. With the bill defeated, implementation of reserved seats for women is expected to face further delays. Congress leaders said the latest controversy involving Geniben Thakor would remain a major campaign issue in Gujarat and other states ahead of future elections during upcoming political rallies and public meetings nationwide

Ancient Shiva Fishing Ritual Attracts Thousands Of Devotees During Chitra Pournami

RAMESWARAM

A centuries-old ritual connected to Lord Shiva's legendary fishing episode was performed at Mariyur village in Ramanathapuram district during Chitra Pournami celebrations, attracting a large number of devotees from across Tamil Nadu.

The ritual, called the "Net-throwing Patalam Thiruvilayadal," took place at the historic Arulmigu Pavalamulattulli Sametha Poovendiya Nath Temple, believed to be more than one thousand years old. The temple is associated with the Ramanathapuram Samasthana Devasthanam.

Temple authorities said the event is held every year as part of a long-standing tradition symbolising Lord Shiva's divine play and his union with Goddess Parvati. The story is one among the 64 Thiruvilayadal episodes mentioned in the Periya Purana written by Sekkizhar. According to temple legends, Goddess Parvati was born as the daughter of a fisherman leader and wished to marry a brave man. The fisherman chief announced that whoever killed a giant shark troubling fishermen would marry his daughter.

Lord Shiva then appeared in the form of a fisherman, entered the sea and killed the shark by casting a fishing net. Priests also said the ritual symbolises the removal of a curse placed on Nandi, who was transformed into a fish.

During the ceremony, idols of Shiva and Parvati were taken in a grand procession to Mariyur beach with traditional music. A Shivacharya dressed as Lord Shiva reenacted the fishing scene from a boat before thousands of devotees gathered on the shore and nearby boats.

Patnaik bats for 'humane banking administration'

BHUBANESWAR

BJD chief and Leader of Opposition Naveen Patnaik on Saturday wrote to Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman over a shocking incident involving a tribal man and a rural bank in Odisha's Keonjhar district. Patnaik demanded strict accountability and compassionate banking services, especially in remote tribal areas.The incident took place on April 27 at the Malliposi branch of Odisha Gramya Bank. Jeetu Munda, a 50-year-old tribal resident, reportedly brought the skeletal remains of his deceased sister, Kalra Munda, to the bank after officials allegedly insisted on her "physical presence" to release Rs 20,000 from her account. Kalra Munda had died in January. According to reports, Jeetu had made several visits to the bank seeking help but failed to receive proper assistance or clear guidance from officials. In desperation, he exhumed his sister's remains and carried them to the branch to prove her death.In his letter, Patnaik strongly criticised the bank officials for allegedly hiding behind RBI guidelines instead of helping the family. He said rules should empower citizens, not humiliate them, and described the incident as inhuman and deeply disturbing.

The former Odisha Chief Minister said the case had shocked people across the state and attracted national and international attention. He urged Sitharaman to ensure immediate action against those responsible and introduce a more citizen-friendly approach in rural banking services.

Iran executes 2 men accused of spying for Israel

TEHRAN

Iran has executed two men accused of spying for Israel, state-linked media reported on Saturday. The judiciary said Yaghoub Karimpour and Nasser Bakarzadeh were found guilty of cooperating with Israel's intelligence agency Mossad. Karimpour was accused of passing sensitive information to a Mossad officer. Bakarzadeh was accused of collecting details on government and religious figures and important sites, including areas near the Natanz nuclear facility in Isfahan province. Both men were hanged after conviction, officials said. The case has added tension as Iran continues to face security concerns linked to espionage allegations involving foreign intelligence services.

Mexico Guv Rocha steps down amid Sinaloa Cartel charges

MEXICO CITY

Ruben Rocha, governor of Mexico's Sinaloa state, has said he will temporarily step down from his position, according to reports. The decision comes after the United States Justice Department charged him and other officials with alleged involvement linked to the Sinaloa Cartel. The case marks a major increase in US actions against drug cartels and may raise tensions between the United States and Mexico. Rocha has not given further details about the allegations. Authorities in both countries are closely watching the political and legal developments in this case officials said on Saturday night reports said.

NATO seeks clarity as US plans troop cut in Germany

The statement comes after US officials confirmed that around 5,000 troops will be withdrawn from Germany over the next 6-12 months

PARIS

NATO has said it is working closely with the United States to understand the details of Washington's decision to reduce its military troop presence in Germany, amid growing discussions on European security responsibilities.

NATO spokesperson Allison Hart said the alliance is in talks with the US to clarify the planned adjustment in force deployment. She added that the move highlights the need for Europe to increase its defence spending and take greater responsibility for shared security commitments.

The statement comes after US officials confirmed that around 5,000 troops will be withdrawn from Germany over the next six to twelve months. The decision marks a shift in American military posture in Europe.According to reports, some 35,000 US military personnel are currently stationed in Germany, making it the largest American military presence in Europe. The planned reduction is expected to bring troop levels closer to pre-2022 numbers, before the Russia-Ukraine war led to a build-up of US forces under the previous administration.US officials linked the decision to rising diplomatic tensions between Washington and European allies, particularly over differing views on the Iran conflict. A Pentagon official, speaking anonymously, said recent remarks from German leadership were considered "inappropriate and unhelpful," adding that the move reflects US frustration with allied responses.The Pentagon also confirmed that the withdrawal will be carried out gradually over several months and includes the removal of a brigade combat team and cancellation of planned deployments of additional military units.

The decision has raised concerns among European security analysts, who warn that it could signal a broader shift in US defence priorities and push European nations to increase military self-reliance.

NATO has stressed that while the US remains committed to the alliance, the situation underlines the importance of stronger European defence capabilities.

GERMANY CALLS FOR STRONGER EUROPEAN DEFENCE AFTER US TROOP CUT

BERLIN: GERMANY HAS URGED EUROPEAN NATIONS TO STRENGTHEN THEIR OWN DEFENCE SYSTEMS AFTER THE UNITED STATES ANNOUNCED A REDUCTION OF ITS MILITARY PRESENCE IN GERMANY.

THE PENTAGON CONFIRMED THAT ABOUT 5,000 AMERICAN TROOPS WILL BE WITHDRAWN, REDUCING THE LONG-STANDING US DEPLOYMENT IN EUROPE'S LARGEST ECONOMY.GERMAN DEFENCE MINISTER BORIS PISTORIUS SAID THE DECISION WAS EXPECTED BUT STRESSED THAT EUROPE MUST TAKE GREATER RESPONSIBILITY FOR ITS OWN SECURITY. HE SAID GERMANY IS ALREADY WORKING TO EXPAND ITS ARMED FORCES, SPEED UP DEFENCE PURCHASES, AND IMPROVE MILITARY INFRASTRUCTURE.THE US CURRENTLY HAS AROUND 35,000 TO 40,000 TROOPS STATIONED IN GERMANY, INCLUDING KEY BASES SUCH AS RAMSTEIN AIR BASE AND LANDSTUHL HOSPITAL, WHICH HAVE SUPPORTED AMERICAN MILITARY OPERATIONS ABROAD FOR DECADES. THE LATEST MOVE INCLUDES THE WITHDRAWAL OF ONE BRIGADE AND CANCELLATION OF A PLANNED LONG-RANGE FIRES BATTALION DEPLOYMENT.OFFICIALS SAID THE REDUCTION COMES AMID RISING TENSIONS BETWEEN THE US AND EUROPE OVER ISSUES SUCH AS THE IRAN CONFLICT AND TRADE TARIFFS. THE DECISION HAS ADDED PRESSURE ON NATO MEMBERS, WHO HAVE ALREADY PLEDGED TO INCREASE DEFENCE RESPONSIBILITIES BUT FACE CHALLENGES DUE TO LIMITED BUDGETS AND CAPABILITY GAPS.GERMANY PLANS TO INCREASE ITS ACTIVE MILITARY PERSONNEL FROM ABOUT 185,000 TO 260,000. HOWEVER, EXPERTS SAY BUILDING FULL DEFENCE READINESS ACROSS EUROPE WILL TAKE SEVERAL YEARS.

THE US MILITARY PRESENCE IN GERMANY DATES BACK TO WORLD WAR II AND REACHED ITS PEAK DURING THE COLD WAR. THE LATEST CHANGES MARK ANOTHER SHIFT IN TRANSATLANTIC DEFENCE RELATIONS AND RAISE CONCERNS ABOUT FUTURE SECURITY BALANCE IN EUROPE.

MALI PROBES SOLDIERS AFTER DEADLY COORDINATED ATTACKS

BAMAKO

Authorities in Mali have launched an investigation into soldiers suspected of involvement in a series of coordinated attacks on military bases carried out by armed groups linked to al Qaeda and separatist rebels.

A judicial official said the probe is focusing on possible internal support for the attacks that took place across multiple locations last week. The list of suspects includes active-duty soldiers, a retired soldier, and a dismissed soldier who was later killed near a major army base in Kati, close to the capital Bamako.

The military prosecutor's office confirmed that arrests have already begun, while additional suspects and collaborators are being tracked. However, officials have not disclosed the total number of people detained so far.

The attacks, which began on April 25, targeted several army positions and created widespread instability across northern Mali. The violence resulted in the killing of the defence minister and forced Russian-backed forces to withdraw from the northern town of Kidal.

Security officials said the situation has further escalated tensions in the desert region, where militant groups are expanding their influence and increasing cross-border threats. Analysts warn that the armed groups are becoming more coordinated and bold in their operations.

One of the main groups involved, Jama'at Nusrat al-Islam wal-Muslimin (JNIM), has urged civilians to rise against the government and has threatened to surround Bamako.Military authorities, led by Assimi Goïta, have vowed strong action against insurgents and promised to restore control. Officials say security operations will continue as investigations expand into possible internal support for the attacks.

Fighting escalates in Ukraine's Kostiantynivka

The city is part of a heavily fortified defence line known as the "fortress belt," where Ukrainian forces continue to resist repeated Russian attempts to advance

KYIV

Russian forces are moving closer to the outskirts of Kostiantynivka, a key Ukrainian stronghold in the eastern Donetsk region, according to Ukraine's military leadership.

The city is part of a heavily fortified defence line known as the "fortress belt," where Ukrainian forces continue to resist repeated Russian attempts to advance. Ukrainian Army Chief Oleksandr Syrskyi said Russian troops are trying to gain ground using small infiltration groups and sabotage tactics.Military officials reported that fighting has intensified over the past month, with dozens of attacks recorded in the area. Ukrainian forces say they are actively countering these attempts and maintaining defensive positions around the city.A battlefield monitoring group, DeepState, indicated that Russian troops are now positioned very close to the southern outskirts of Kostiantynivka, with some nearby zones still under disputed control.Russian defence authorities claimed earlier that they had taken control of nearby villages, while continuing operations from multiple directions around the city. However, Ukraine says its forces are still holding key positions and preventing a full breakthrough.The ongoing conflict is part of Russia's broader push in eastern Ukraine, where small territorial gains have come after long and intense battles. Large urban centres remain difficult for Russian forces to fully capture, according to military reports.Kostiantynivka remains strategically important as both sides continue heavy fighting in the Donetsk region, with no immediate sign of a slowdown in clashes or ground movements.

Kenya floods kill 10 as dam overflow risk grows

NAIROBI

At least 10 people have died in Kenya after heavy rains triggered widespread flooding and landslides across several regions, according to police reports. Authorities have also warned that rising river levels and overflowing dams could pose serious danger to communities living downstream.

Most of the deaths, seven in total, were reported in eastern Kenya. Officials said the extreme rainfall has caused significant damage to infrastructure, including the collapse of two bridges in Kwale county on the coast and Kitui county in eastern Kenya. Landslides were also reported in parts of Elgeyo Marakwet in the Rift Valley region.The heavy rains, which fall during Kenya's normal March to May wet season, have become more intense this year. Authorities said the saturated soil has increased the risk of flooding and landslides, making several areas highly vulnerable. Transport has been severely affected after a landslide blocked the Iten–Kabarnet road near Kolol. The Kenya National Highways Authority said repair work is underway and traffic has been diverted to alternative routes.

US-Philippine forces display NMESIS system

BATANES

US and Philippine forces on Saturday displayed the NMESIS anti ship missile system in Batanes province near Taiwan during annual war games. The drills come as tensions remain high over Taiwan, which China claims as its territory. Batanes is the northernmost Philippine province, close to the Luzon Strait and only about one hundred miles from Taiwan. The NMESIS system was flown in by a US C one thirty aircraft and placed in Basco town for training use. It can hit ships from land using missiles with a range of about one hundred fifteen miles and is designed for remote operation. U S Staff Sergeant Darren Gibbs said the system allows troops to train in new environments and operate without a driver inside the vehicle.

Officials said the weapon is not used in live firing and will be withdrawn after the exercises finish. The exercise named Balikatan involves more than seventeen thousand troops from the Philippines and United States across several locations. China has criticized the presence of American weapons in the Philippines saying it increases regional tension and military rivalry. Security analysts say the missile system could act as a deterrent in the Luzon Strait area near Taiwan. Philippine officials also said contingency plans exist to evacuate citizens from Taiwan if conflict breaks out.

The deployment is part of closer military cooperation between Washington and Manila amid growing security concerns in the region. It also reflects efforts to test how quickly advanced weapons can be moved to remote islands in case of emergency. Local officials in Batanes said the presence of troops brought attention to the strategic importance of their quiet island province. The Luzon Strait, where Batanes is located, is seen as a key waterway between the South China Sea and the Pacific Ocean. Military observers say exercises like this signal readiness and aim to strengthen alliances in the Indo Pacific region.

The NMESIS system will be removed from Batanes once the war games conclude as planned.

Air India cuts flights as fuel surge hits viability

New Delhi

Air India CEO Campbell Wilson has warned of significant flight reductions as soaring jet fuel prices and airspace constraints hit the airline's viability. The carrier has already cut some services in April and May and plans further reductions through June and July. A sharp rise in aviation turbine fuel costs, combined with longer routes due to West Asia airspace restrictions, has made several domestic and international flights unprofitable. Reports suggest up to 100 flights could be affected, including routes to Europe, North America, and Australia. With fuel accounting for a large share of operating costs, Air India said the cuts are necessary amid ongoing global disruptions.

Central Bank warns of debt vulnerabilities worldwide

New Delhi

Reserve Bank of India Governor Sanjay Malhotra said India's macroeconomic fundamentals remain strong despite global uncertainties, supported by robust consumption and sustained public investment. Speaking at an international conference in Amsterdam, he cautioned that rising public debt in major economies, driven by continued fiscal expansion and higher defence spending, poses risks to global financial stability. He also warned that stretched valuations, particularly in technology assets, could threaten markets. Disruptions in supply chains and elevated energy prices have already impacted economic activity and may trigger inflationary pressures if prolonged.

Central banks trim dollar exposure, boost gold bets

Bank notes that this shift is part of a broader "de-dollarisation" trend, where countries are diversifying reserve assets to reduce reliance on dollar-based financial systems

NEW DELHI

Global central banks are reducing their exposure to the US dollar and increasing gold reserves amid rising geopolitical tensions, according to a Deutsche Bank analysis.

The bank notes that this shift is part of a broader "de-dollarisation" trend, where countries are diversifying reserve assets to reduce reliance on dollar-based financial systems. Central banks, particularly in emerging markets, are steadily increasing gold allocations as a hedge against economic uncertainty, sanctions risk, and global instability.

According to the analysis, gold's share in global central bank reserves has already risen significantly over the past two decades, while the US dollar's dominance has gradually declined. The trend has accelerated in recent years as geopolitical conflicts and financial fragmentation have increased demand for neutral reserve assets.Deutsche Bank highlights that central banks have been among the largest buyers of gold since the 2008 financial crisis, accumulating hundreds of millions of ounces. This sustained demand has helped support gold prices and is expected to continue influencing global markets. The report also points out that emerging economies are leading this shift, with several countries expanding gold reserves alongside diversification into other currencies. Analysts say this strategy reflects concerns over currency volatility, debt levels, and the weaponisation of financial systems.Market observers note that the transition is not only financial but also geopolitical, as countries reassess long-term reserve strategies in a more multipolar world. Gold is increasingly seen as a "neutral asset" without counterparty risk.Recent projections suggest that if current trends continue, central banks could further increase gold's share in reserves over the coming decade, reinforcing its role as a key pillar of global monetary stability amid ongoing uncertainty.

Recap

- Dollar exposure being reduced
- Gold reserves steadily increasing
- Geopolitical tensions driving shift
- Emerging markets leading trend
- Gold seen as safe asset

India eases HVDC localisation rules

NEW DELHI

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA
MINISTRY OF POWER
सत्यमेव जयते

Govt eases HVDC substation norms under Make in India, targeting 60% local content by 2035 to boost domestic manufacturing and energy infra growth.

The Ministry of Power has eased localisation norms for high voltage direct current HVDC substation projects under the Make in India initiative aiming to significantly increase domestic manufacturing in the power transmission sector, according to official sources.

The revised framework is designed to attract global manufacturers while encouraging joint ventures and technology transfers with Indian companies to build local capacity in critical grid infrastructure components

Authorities said the policy sets an ambitious target of achieving sixty percent local content in HVDC substation equipment by 2035 as part of long term energy security and self-reliance goals The move is expected to reduce import dependence on high end transmission systems particularly those used in large scale renewable energy integration projects

Officials added that easing procurement and localisation requirements will help speed up project execution while maintaining quality and global competitiveness of Indian suppliers The policy also encourages domestic research and development in advanced power electronics and grid automation technologies

Industry stakeholders have welcomed the decision saying it will create new investment opportunities and strengthen India's position in the global power infrastructure supply chain The government believes that the updated norms will accelerate the expansion of modern transmission networks needed for integrating renewable energy and improving grid reliability across the country

The initiative aligns with India's broader energy transition strategy focusing on clean energy expansion and infrastructure modernisation It is also expected to generate employment and boost domestic manufacturing ecosystems across the electrical equipment sector Analysts said smoother norms may attract foreign investment and improve supply chains efficiency

Govt prioritises 12.22 lakh crore capex plan despite fiscal stress, focusing on infrastructure amid global uncertainties

GOVT TO SUSTAIN CAPEX DESPITE FISCAL STRESS

NEW DELHI

The government has said it will continue its planned capital expenditure of 12.22 lakh crore in the current fiscal year despite emerging fiscal pressures due to global uncertainties, including the ongoing West Asia conflict.Expenditure Secretary V Vualnam stated that maintaining capital expenditure remains a top priority to sustain economic growth momentum, even as fiscal challenges intensify. He cautioned that the coming quarters and the next financial year could see multiple "stress points," including potential impacts on tax revenue following recent fuel duty adjustments.He added that while fiscal stress is a reality, the government is committed to ensuring that capital expenditure is maintained at budgeted levels. The focus areas for FY27 capex include highways, railways, ports, shipping, and urban development, aimed at strengthening infrastructure and long-term growth.The official noted that global uncertainties, particularly rising crude oil prices due to geopolitical tensions, have created a difficult environment for India as a major importer of petroleum products. Despite this, he said India's fiscal discipline has placed the economy in a relatively strong position.

The FY27 fiscal deficit target has been set at 4.3% of GDP, though revisions may take it closer to 4.5%. Revenue pressures have increased due to excise duty cuts on petrol and diesel aimed at controlling retail fuel prices.

He also highlighted risks related to energy imports, noting that India depends heavily on imported LPG, much of which passes through vulnerable shipping routes.The government has also imposed export duties on diesel and aviation turbine fuel to ensure domestic supply stability. Officials said these measures are being reviewed periodically in response to changing global conditions.

Spirit Airlines shuts down after failed rescue talks

NEW DELHI

Spirit Airlines on Saturday announced it is shutting down operations and initiating an orderly wind-down after failing to secure a financial lifeline from lenders and the US government.

The airline cancelled all scheduled flights with immediate effect and suspended customer support services. Passengers have been advised not to head to airports, as the company's website now provides detailed guidance on refunds and next steps.

The decision comes after negotiations over a potential rescue package collapsed, leaving the airline without the funds needed to sustain operations. Despite attempts to arrange emergency financing, discussions with creditors and government authorities failed to produce an agreement, effectively sealing the airline's fate.

Spirit Airlines cited mounting cost pressures, particularly rising fuel prices, as a major factor behind its deteriorating financial condition. The company noted that recent increases in oil prices, coupled with broader operational challenges, significantly weakened its outlook and ability to continue as a going concern.

Refunds for eligible bookings made through credit or debit cards are expected to be processed automatically. Customers with other types of claims will have to seek resolution through ongoing bankruptcy proceedings as part of the wind-down process.

The airline said it will continue coordinating with vendors, partners, and other stakeholders during this period and will provide updates through the legal process as required.The shutdown marks the end of an airline that operated for more than three decades and became a prominent player in the US ultra-low-cost aviation segment, known for its budget fares and no-frills service model.

Two-wheeler sales boost India's FY26 auto recovery

NEW DELHI

India's automobile sector witnessed a demand-led yet uneven recovery in FY26, with two-wheelers emerging as the primary growth driver, according to a report by Deloitte India. Urban demand and premiumisation trends supported overall growth, while rural markets continued to face pressure.

Two-wheeler wholesale volumes rose 10.7% year-on-year, while retail sales recorded a stronger increase of 13.4%. The segment also saw a notable shift toward premium motorcycles, which surged 40.7%, alongside an 18.5% rise in scooter demand.

Passenger vehicles maintained their premiumisation trajectory, with mid-size entry segments gaining traction as traditional entry-level categories weakened. Meanwhile, commercial vehicles entered a goods-led upcycle, growing around 12.6%, supported by infrastructure expansion and replacement demand.

Electric vehicle adoption continued to rise but remained uneven across regions. Electric two-wheelers grew 21.8 per cent, though overall penetration increased modestly to 6.5% due to pricing challenges and limited charging infrastructure.

Regionally, Kerala led EV penetration at 14.1%, while Karnataka and Odisha showed steady progress. Maharashtra, however, saw its share decline despite higher volumes, reflecting a rebound in internal combustion engine demand.

The report also noted that pricing adjustments and GST rationalisation in the latter half of FY26 improved affordability in the sub-350cc motorcycle segment, narrowing the gap with commuter bikes.

Overall, urban markets drove growth through premium offerings and feature upgrades, while policy support and trade developments are expected to shape the sector's medium-term outlook.

Fuel prices stable amid tensions

NEW DELHI: Petrol and diesel prices across India remained unchanged on May 2, offering temporary relief to consumers despite global oil market volatility. Tensions in the Middle East have kept crude prices unstable, raising concerns about future revisions. OMCs continue daily price reviews but are absorbing cost pressures for now.

OBESITAS 2026 highlights India's obesity challenge

NEW DELHI

Over 500 doctors and 150 nutritionists gathered at OBESITAS 2026, a major medical conference organised by the IJCP Group in association with the South Asian Obesity Forum, to address India's rising obesity burden.

The event focused on obesity as a chronic, complex disease linked to diabetes, cardiovascular disorders, fatty liver disease, and hormonal imbalances. Experts stressed the need for early diagnosis, structured treatment, and multidisciplinary care to manage the growing public health crisis.The conference, themed "Obesity Awareness, Advocacy, Action," featured discussions on advanced therapies, including GLP-1 receptor agonists, dual incretin treatments, and medical nutrition therapy. Specialists also examined the increasing role of technology in obesity management and personalised treatment approaches.

Doctors noted that India is witnessing a sharp rise in obesity across both urban and rural populations, driven by sedentary lifestyles, dietary changes, and rising consumption of ultra-processed foods. This has led to a parallel increase in non-communicable diseases such as diabetes and heart disease.A key highlight of the event was the national launch of the Thyroid Federation of India, aimed at improving awareness and coordinated care for metabolic disorders that often overlap with obesity.

Organisers said OBESITAS 2026 aimed to bridge gaps in clinical practice by bringing together endocrinologists, cardiologists, and nutrition experts on a single platform.

Health experts emphasised that obesity should no longer be seen as a lifestyle issue but as a serious medical condition requiring structured intervention and policy-level attention.

The conference also called for stronger public health strategies and greater awareness to tackle India's growing metabolic health crisis.

STRATEGIC BOOST

'Great Nicobar Project to boost India's maritime strategy'

NEW DELHI

The proposed Great Nicobar Project is being seen as a major step in strengthening India's maritime strategy, offering strategic depth, economic leverage, and enhanced influence in the Indian Ocean region, according to a new analysis.The report notes that while the island project is ambitious and faces significant execution and environmental risks, its core rationale lies in leveraging geography for long-term national advantage. It argues that India's location along key global shipping routes remains underutilised despite its vast coastline and strategic position.The project aims to develop Great Nicobar into a major transshipment and logistics hub, reducing India's dependence on foreign ports such as Singapore, Colombo, and Port Klang. Currently, a large share of India's cargo—estimated at around three million TEUs annually—is handled through these external hubs, resulting in substantial revenue loss.The analysis estimates that India loses around $200–220 million annually in port revenues due to this dependency. A fully operational international container transshipment terminal at Great Nicobar could help retain freight earnings, reduce shipping time for exporters, and improve trade competitiveness. Projected revenues from the project could reach approximately $3.16 billion annually by 2040, against an estimated investment of $7.9–8.53 billion. However, experts caution that employment projections of around 50,000 jobs remain aspirational and depend on successful implementation.The report also highlights that the initiative aligns with broader government programmes such as Maritime India Vision 2030 and Sagarmala, which focus on port-led development and logistics expansion.

Small-cap stocks surge despite weak macro signals

NEW DELHI

Indian equity markets delivered strong returns in April, with small-cap and micro-cap segments outperforming larger indices despite a weak macroeconomic backdrop marked by geopolitical tensions and rising crude oil prices, according to a report by OmniScience Capital.

The report noted that the Nifty Smallcap 250 index delivered 13.4% returns, while the Nifty Microcap 250 index surged 16.2%. Smaller companies within the firm's "Bharat Vectors" framework also posted strong gains, indicating broad-based participation in lower market-cap segments.

A group of select 250 stocks with an average market capitalisation of around 1,500 crore delivered 25.2% returns, while another set of 250 stocks with 3,000 crore average market cap returned 23.2% during the month.

India names new faces for historic test

MUMBAI

India has announced an exciting squad for the historic one-off Women's Test against England at Lord's, featuring maiden call-ups for Nandni Sharma and N. Sree Charani. This July match marks a milestone, as it will be the first-ever women's Test played at the legendary "Home of Cricket."

Nandni Sharma earned her spot after a sensational WPL season with the Delhi Capitals, where she became the first Indian pacer to take a hat-trick. Joining her is uncapped left-arm spinner N. Sree Charani, who replaces Vaishnavi Sharma in the spin attack. Wicket-keeper-batter Yastika Bhatia and pacer Renuka Singh Thakur also return to the squad after recovering from injuries, strengthening the team ahead of the big game.

KKR boosted as Pathirana joins the squad

HYDERABAD

The Kolkata Knight Riders (KKR) have received a massive boost as Sri Lankan pace sensation Matheesha Pathirana has finally joined the team. KKR bowling coach Tim Southee confirmed that the speedster is back in action and training hard ahead of their crucial clash in their next match.

Pathirana, who was bought for a staggering ₹18 crore, has sat out the entire season so far due to a calf strain suffered during the T20 World Cup.

His return couldn't come at a better time for KKR, who are currently struggling in eighth place.

"He's been bowling well at training," Southee said, though he noted that the final playing XI would depend on the pitch conditions in Hyderabad.

The coach also opened up about why this IPL season has been a nightmare for bowlers. With 36 totals over 200 already recorded this year, Southee blamed "road-like" batting tracks and the Impact Player rule.

He explained that teams no longer fear losing wickets early because they have extra batting depth, allowing youngsters like Abhishek Sharma and Vaibhav Sooryavanshi to attack relentlessly from the first ball.

Currently, KKR faces a steep uphill battle with only two wins in eight games. They now go up against an SRH side that is on a five-match winning streak and sitting comfortably in third place.

Whether Pathirana's "slingshot" pace can stop the high-scoring trend remains to be seen, but KKR fans will be hoping their big-money signing can turn their season around.

Mandhana shows same leadership spark as Dhoni

Dinesh Karthik praised Smriti Mandhana's "calm authority," comparing her self-assured leadership style to that of legendary captain MS Dhoni

NEW DELHI

Indian cricket star Dinesh Karthik has sparked excitement by comparing Smriti Mandhana's captaincy style to that of the legendary MS Dhoni. Following a sensational season for Royal Challengers Bengaluru (RCB), Karthik praised Mandhana for the "calm authority" and sense of freedom she brings to her team, traits famously linked to India's World Cup-winning former captain.

In a video released by the franchise, Karthik described Mandhana as a leader who is deeply self-assured and intuitive.

He noted that she has a rare ability to read match situations perfectly while empowering her teammates to play their natural game. According to Karthik, Mandhana strikes a perfect balance, she gives players the space to express themselves but remains a rock-solid presence whenever they are in doubt. "The last person I heard players say this about was MS Dhoni," Karthik remarked.

The results speak for themselves. Under Mandhana's guidance, the RCB women dominated the 2026 season, clinching their second title by defeating Delhi Capitals in a record-breaking final. Mandhana didn't just lead, she dominated with the bat, topping the scoring charts and guiding her team through the highest successful run chase in league history.

This success follows her stellar performance as vice-captain during India's historic World Cup win last year.

Whether leading her country or her club, Mandhana is proving that her quiet confidence is a championship-winning formula. As her trophy cabinet grows, the comparisons to "Captain Cool" seem more fitting than ever.

MARK WOOD eyes careful return to cricket

England speedster Mark Wood is targeting a cautious summer return, prioritizing long-term fitness over a rushed comeback to avoid a career-ending recurrence of his knee injury.

NEW DELHI

England's speed merchant Mark Wood has revealed he is targeting a cautious comeback this summer following a grueling battle with a recurring knee injury. The 36-year-old fast bowler, famous for his terrifying pace, admitted that he is approaching this latest recovery with extreme care, knowing his professional career could be on the line.

Wood's recent journey has been a heartbreak for fans. After undergoing surgery in 2025 and spending over a year on the sidelines, he returned for the Ashes in Perth last November.

However, his comeback lasted only eleven overs before his knee failed again. Now, the Durham star is refusing to rush. "I've got maybe one more chance at doing this right," Wood told the BBC, emphasizing that another setback could force him into permanent retirement.

The timing is difficult for England. With legendary bowlers like James Anderson and Stuart Broad no longer leading the attack, the national team is desperate for experience. With other key bowlers like Jofra Archer and Brydon Carse facing their own hurdles, England may have to rely on fresh faces for the upcoming series against New Zealand in June.

Despite the "mega frustrating" journey, Wood remains focused on his goal of adding to his 146 international appearances.

He was bowling at his peak before the injury struck and is determined to reach those speeds once more. For Wood, the priority is no longer just playing, but ensuring he is healthy enough to stay on the pitch for good.

Pujara claims fearless batting has transformed IPL

NEW DELHI

Cricket legends Cheteshwar Pujara and Sanjay Bangar believe the 2026 IPL season has permanently changed the art of T20 batting. According to the veterans, the current tournament is the most explosive in history, driven by a new generation of players who prioritize aggressive scoring over traditional steady play.

The statistics from the first 35 matches are staggering. Teams are scoring at a record overall rate of nearly ten runs per over, with Powerplay scoring hitting an all-time high. Pujara noted that the "Impact Player" rule has given teams the confidence to attack without fear, leading to 29 totals over 200 so far. Even more impressive is how easily these massive targets are being chased down, with ten successful 200-plus chases already recorded.

Young stars like 15-year-old sensation Vaibhav Suryavanshi and the explosive Abhishek Sharma are leading this charge. Suryavanshi, in particular, has stunned fans by hitting 15-ball half-centuries on three separate occasions. Bangar emphasized that in this high-speed era, a player's strike rate has become the ultimate "currency," making traditional batting averages almost irrelevant.

Both experts also credited the groundskeepers across India for preparing excellent batting surfaces that allow for such high-octane entertainment.

"It's not about building an innings anymore," Pujara explained. "It's about scoring as many runs in the fewest balls possible."

As the tournament passes its midpoint, this fearless philosophy shows no signs of slowing down, promising even more fireworks for fans.

Mitchell Starc shines in successful IPL return

NEW DELHI

Australian pace legend Mitchell Starc made a triumphant return to the cricket pitch, helping the Delhi Capitals secure a historic seven-wicket win over the Rajasthan Royals. After missing the first half of the season due to shoulder and elbow injuries, Starc's comeback provided the spark Delhi needed to snap their recent losing streak.

The left-arm bowler admitted to feeling some rust after nearly three months away from competitive action. Having not bowled to a batter since February, Starc noted that the lightning-fast pace of T20 cricket was a jump from the Test matches he is used to. "It's nice to get some miles on the legs," Starc said, expressing relief at finally being back in the thick of the action.

Starc proved his worth immediately by taking crucial wickets in the final overs, restricting Rajasthan to 225 runs.

His experience helped stall their momentum just as they looked to post an unreachable score.

Delhi's batters then took over, completing the highest successful run-chase in the team's history with an over to spare. Starc described the batting performance as a "near-perfect chase," praising his teammates for their clinical execution.

With this victory, the Delhi Capitals have found fresh energy as the tournament enters its most critical phase. For Starc, the focus is now on staying healthy and building momentum.

By taking things one game at a time, he hopes to lead Delhi's bowling attack toward a successful playoff run in this new month of competition.

Nissanka find his groove in record chase

NEW DELHI

Former Indian cricketer Mohammad Kaif believes opener Pathum Nissanka has finally found his rhythm after a match-winning performance against the Rajasthan Royals. Following a brief stint on the sidelines due to poor form, the Sri Lankan star returned to the lineup, smashing a vital 62 runs to help the Delhi Capitals hunt down a massive target of 226.

Kaif noted that this innings was a major turning point for Nissanka, who had struggled to convert his early starts into big scores earlier in the season. Facing one of the league's most feared bowling attacks, Nissanka showed no fear as he took on the likes of Jofra Archer and Nandre Burger. His aggressive approach during the powerplay ensured that Delhi never felt the pressure of the daunting run rate, setting a record-breaking pace from the first ball.

The commentator also praised Delhi's smart tactics, particularly the decision to send in Nitish Rana during the middle overs. Rana, known for his dominance against spin, lived up to his reputation by attacking Ravindra Jadeja and Ravi Bishnoi immediately. "His quickfire 33 shifted the momentum," Kaif said, highlighting how Rana's confidence from previous games helped Delhi control the game's most difficult phase.

Supported by a solid 75 from captain KL Rahul and a cool finish from Tristan Stubbs, Delhi completed their highest-ever successful run-chase with five balls to spare. For Kaif, this victory wasn't just about the points, it was about the individual confidence gained by players like Nissanka, who are now peaking at just the right time.

Emotional victory for the DC family heartbeat

NEW DELHI

The Delhi Capitals secured an emotional seven-wicket victory over the Rajasthan Royals in the last match they played, but the win was about much more than cricket. In a touching gesture, the team dedicated their success to two young fans, Yagya and Abhav Bhatia, who tragically lost their lives in a recent accident.

The cousins, aged 20 and 14, were killed in a hit-and-run incident on April 27. The tragedy occurred as they were traveling home after cheering for Delhi at the Arun Jaitley Stadium. Both were well-known members of the 'DC Toli' fan group and were familiar faces to the franchise.

Following the match in Jaipur, head coach Hemang Badani delivered a heartfelt speech in the dressing room. He told the players that the victory belonged to the two boys, noting that the team's performance had surely done them proud. "This win is for them," Badani said in a video shared by the team. "They were massive fans who had been with us for a long time."

Captain Axar Patel also expressed his deepest condolences during the post-match presentation. He described the boys as irreplaceable members of the "DC family" and acknowledged the heavy emotional weight the team had carried since the news broke.

While the win snapped a three-match losing streak for Delhi, the night was defined by this human connection. By honoring Yagya and Abhav, the Delhi Capitals showed that their supporters are the true heartbeat of the club.

Josh Inglis joins Lucknow for season rescue

NEW DELHI

The Lucknow Super Giants have received a much-needed boost with the arrival of Australian star Josh Inglis for the remainder of IPL 2026.

The wicketkeeper-batter has officially joined the squad in India and begun training ahead of the high-stakes clash against the Mumbai Indians at the Wankhede Stadium.

Inglis' participation was previously uncertain due to personal commitments, including his wedding in Western Australia last month.

Despite these delays, Lucknow showed immense faith in the 31-year-old, securing his services for Rs 8.6 crore during the auction. His arrival comes at a critical moment for the franchise, which currently sits near the bottom of the table with only two wins from eight matches.

Mumbai management must answer for team struggles

NEW DELHI

Former New Zealand cricketer Simon Doull has called for major accountability at the top of the Mumbai Indians organization following their latest defeat. The five-time champions suffered a stinging six-wicket loss to Sunrisers Hyderabad, even after posting a massive 243 runs. The defeat leaves Mumbai near the bottom of the table with a dismal record of only two wins from eight games.

Doull argues that the franchise's problems run deeper than poor bowling or batting. He pointed specifically to the controversial leadership change that saw Hardik Pandya replace Rohit Sharma as captain. Comparing the team to a pride of lions, Doull suggested that Pandya, once a "cub" in the squad, returned to fight the "king" for control, a move that has disrupted the team's chemistry.

The dressing room, according to Doull, is now a difficult environment "full of alphas." With four senior players who have captained their respective national teams, Doull believes authority has been weakened. He noted that when results fail, players naturally begin to wonder if they could do a better job than the person in charge.

This is not a one-year slump, Mumbai has struggled for three seasons, including finishing last in 2024. Doull insists that the owners and managers must take responsibility for these structural declines.

Rajasthan Royals blame bowling for tough defeat

JAIPUR

Rajasthan Royals batting coach Vikram Rathour admitted that a failure to execute bowling plans was the primary reason for their seven-wicket loss to the Delhi Capitals. Despite posting a massive total of 225 runs, the Royals' defense crumbled under a record-breaking chase by the visitors at the Jaipur stadium.

Rathour expressed confidence that 226 runs should have been enough to win on that surface.

However, he pointed to a scoreless and expensive powerplay as the turning point. "We gave away lots of runs and didn't pick up any wickets early on," Rathour explained during the post-match press conference.

He noted that even in the later stages of the game, the bowlers struggled to stick to their strategies against a firing Delhi lineup. On the bright side, the coach praised the resilience of his middle order. After openers fell early for the first time this season, captain Riyan Parag stepped up with a brilliant 90, supported by Dhruv Jurel and a late-inning explosion from Donovan Ferreira. Rathour noted that this performance proves the team isn't reliant on just one or two stars. He also confirmed that Parag is "absolutely fine" after suffering minor cramps during the match.

Regarding 15-year-old sensation Vaibhav Suryavanshi's early exit, Rathour remained supportive, stating that the youngster shouldn't be expected to score every time.

As Rajasthan looks to bounce back, the focus now shifts entirely to fixing their defensive flaws and ensuring their bowlers can protect the big totals their batters are producing.

Jamieson penalized for fiery send-off to teenager

JAIPUR

Delhi Capitals fast bowler Kyle Jamieson has been officially warned and handed a demerit point following an aggressive celebration during the clash against the Rajasthan Royals. The IPL governing body confirmed the penalty after Jamieson breached the tournament's Code of Conduct during a high-stakes match at the Sawai Mansingh Stadium.

The incident occurred early in the game after Jamieson dismissed 15-year-old batting sensation Vaibhav Sooryavanshi. The young batter had started the over confidently, hitting the New Zealand pacer for a boundary on the very first ball. However, Jamieson roared back, bowling Sooryavanshi on the next delivery. In the heat of the moment, the veteran bowler celebrated by clapping aggressively near the teenager and giving him a "fiery" send-off as he left the pitch.

League officials determined that Jamieson's actions were provocative and fell under Article 2.5 of the Code of Conduct, which prohibits gestures that disparage or bait opponents.

Norris grabs sprint pole in Miami thriller

Lando Norris secured the Miami sprint pole for McLaren, ending Mercedes' season-long qualifying dominance in a thrilling session

MIAMI

Lando Norris reminded the Formula One world why he is the reigning champion by snatching pole position in the Miami Grand Prix sprint race. In a high-stakes qualifying session at the Hard Rock Stadium, the McLaren star clocked a blistering time of 1:27.869, officially ending Mercedes' undefeated streak of pole positions for the 2026 season.

The victory was a major statement for McLaren, who arrived in Florida with a heavily upgraded car. "It's nice to feel some grip again," Norris remarked, crediting the team's hard work for the improved performance. While McLaren hoped for a front-row lockout, Mercedes' championship leader, Kimi Antonelli, spoiled the party by splitting the two orange cars to claim second place. Norris's teammate, Oscar Piastri, will start third, just ahead of Ferrari's Charles Leclerc.

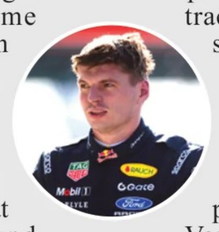
The session offered a rare glimpse of vulnerability from Mercedes, who had dominated the first three rounds of the year. George Russell, currently second in the standings, expressed surprise at the massive leaps made by McLaren and Ferrari, admitting he struggled with the intense Miami heat.

Further down the grid, four-time champion Max Verstappen could only manage fifth for Red Bull, while Aston Martin's nightmare season continued as they fell behind the newcomers, Cadillac. With eight points on the line for the sprint winner and overtaking expected to be frequent, the next race promises to be a flat-out battle under the revised engine rules designed for maximum speed.

Verstappen gains confidence as Red Bull improves

MIAMI

Max Verstappen believes Red Bull is finally turning a corner after a difficult start to the 2026 season. Following a month-long break in the racing calendar, the four-time world champion expressed a renewed sense of trust in his car after qualifying fifth for Saturday's sprint race at the Miami Grand Prix.



The Dutch driver has been vocal about his frustrations with Formula One's new regulations, having failed to finish higher than sixth in the opening rounds of the year. However, a fresh set of upgrades brought to the Hard Rock Stadium seems to have provided the stability he was looking for. Verstappen noted that the car feels "more together" and predictable on the track. The numbers suggest a genuine comeback is in the works. While Red Bull trailed the leaders by over a second in previous races, Verstappen was able to cut that deficit significantly. His best lap was roughly half a second behind pole-sitter Lando Norris, a gap he says has been "halved" thanks to the team's latest engineering efforts.

Racing legend Alex Zanardi passes away aged 59

BOLOGNA

The sporting world is in mourning following the death of Alex Zanardi, the former Formula One driver and Paralympic hero who became a global symbol of resilience. Zanardi, 59, passed away peacefully surrounded by his loved ones, his family confirmed in a heartbreaking statement.

Zanardi's life was defined by his incredible ability to overcome tragedy. After making his F1 debut in 1991 and winning two championships in the American CART series, his life changed forever in 2001. A horrific racing crash in Germany resulted in the loss of both his legs. Most people would have given up, but Zanardi famously refused to let his injuries define him.

He transitioned to para-cycling and became an icon of the Paralympic movement, winning four gold medals across the London 2012 and Rio 2016 Games. Despite suffering further severe injuries in a 2020 road accident, he continued to fight for his recovery for years.

New rules set to rank top boxers

NEW DELHI

The Boxing Federation of India (BFI) has officially launched a new assessment framework for the Elite National Coaching Camp. This system will decide the national rankings and select the athletes who will represent India in major global tournaments like the Commonwealth Games, Asian Games, and the World Boxing Cup.

The evaluation is designed to be tough and thorough, using a 200-mark scoring system. It doesn't just focus on how well a boxer fights, it also tracks "non-technical" factors like attendance, health, weight management, and strength. To ensure fairness, the BFI will also look at recent performances from the 2026 COAS Cup to reward those who have shown consistent excellence in the ring.

The testing will happen in two phases starting next week. On May 6 and 7, boxers will undergo intense strength and conditioning tests. Following this, from May 11 to 15, they will compete in knockout-style sparring bouts to determine the final rankings for each weight category. Recent tweaks were made to the schedule to give athletes enough time to prepare following a slight delay in the camp's official approval.

MIAMI TRACK LIMIT CHAOS

TRACK LIMIT ERROR SPARKS CHAOS IN MIAMI

MIAMI

A technical glitch during the Miami Grand Prix sprint qualifying left Williams driver Alex Albon and Racing Bulls' Liam Lawson in a bizarre sporting limbo. Although Albon originally appeared to advance into the second stage of qualifying, a delayed track-limits penalty eventually stripped him of his position, but only after the next round had already begun.

The confusion started when Albon went wide at Turn 6 during his fastest lap in the first session. Normally, F1's automated systems catch these errors instantly. However, officials explained that rubber marks left on the track by support races, like the Porsche Carrera Cup, confused the sensors. By the time race director Rui Marques manually confirmed the mistake and reported it to the stewards, the second session was already underway with Albon on the track.

The late decision was a crushing blow for Liam Lawson. The young driver sat in his car in the pits, hoping for a miracle that would allow him to take Albon's place. Unfortunately, because the session had progressed too far, Lawson remained eliminated in 17th place.

Following a precedent set at the 2022 Austrian Grand Prix, stewards eventually deleted all of Albon's times from both sessions.

This dropped the Williams driver to 19th on the starting grid for Saturday's sprint. While Williams argued they wasted resources competing in a session they shouldn't have been in, officials stood firm, proving that in the high-tech world of F1, even a simple white line can cause massive headaches.

Big pickleball stars shine at Mumbai tournament

MUMBAI

The Andheri Sports Complex is buzzing with energy as the Maharashtra Pickleball Association (MPA) officially kicked off the Maharashtra Open 2026. This major three-day event, running from May 1 to 3, has quickly become the state's biggest stage for the fast-growing sport, attracting over 1,000 eager players.

The tournament was inaugurated by Cultural Affairs Minister Ashish Shelar alongside MPA President Rahool Kanal. The competition features top-tier talent, including Arjun and Aditya Singh, who recently brought home three gold medals from the US Open in Florida. Also hitting the court is Mihika Yadav, India's second-ranked female pro.

Early matches have already delivered high drama. In the singles finals, Aahana Punjabi took the women's crown with a powerful performance, while Atharva Khishti triumphed in the men's category. In a major twist, young star Arush Niture pulled off a massive upset by defeating champion Arjun Singh in the semi-finals before falling to Khishti in the finale.

"Our goal is to make Maharashtra the heart of pickleball in India," said Rahool Kanal, noting that the association gained 750 members in just its first month. Minister Shelar echoed this pride, promising government support for the athletes.

This championship isn't just about local glory, winners earn a spot to represent Maharashtra at the National Championship later this year. As the sport spreads into smaller towns and districts, this weekend's event marks a historic turning point for athletes and fans across the state.

France makes history with first Thomas cup medal

AARHUS

The French badminton team achieved a monumental milestone, storming into the Thomas Cup semifinals for the first time in history. By sweeping world powerhouse Japan with a 3-0 victory, France has guaranteed itself a maiden medal in the prestigious tournament. They are now set for a high-stakes showdown against India in the final four.

France's historic night was built on the backs of their incredible singles players. Christo Popov started the momentum with a grueling win over Japan's Kodai Naraoka, showing immense endurance in a physical battle.

Alex Lanier followed with a composed performance to put France on the brink of victory. The historic moment was finally sealed when Toma Junior Popov held his nerve in a nail-biting finish to defeat Koki Watanabe.

"I wanted to cry, but I am too happy," Toma Junior said after the match. He noted that after beating Indonesia earlier in the week, this win serves as a loud warning to the badminton world that France is ready to fight for the top.

Standing in their way is India, the 2022 champions, who advanced with their own dominant 3-0 win over Chinese Taipei.

India's victory was powered by stars Lakshya Sen and the world-class doubles duo of Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty. Meanwhile, hosts Denmark also progressed to the semis, ensuring a rare double-European presence in the final rounds. As the competition heats up, France's dream run remains the talk of the tournament.

Lakshya Sen injury shocks India semifinal plans

India's badminton team faced a setback as Lakshya Sen was ruled out of the Thomas & Uber Cup semifinal against France due to an elbow injury. The issue came after a tough quarterfinal match. Officials said he needs rest to recover fully. Despite this, Sen had earlier helped India win against Chou Tien Chen in a thrilling game.

Young tigresses end 21-year wait with Asian cup opener

SUZHOU

The Indian Women's U17 National Team is set to make a historic return to the continental stage as they face Australia in their opening match of the AFC U17 Women's Asian Cup China 2026. Kick-off is scheduled for 17:00 IST and will be streamed live on the AFC Asian Cup YouTube channel.

This match marks India's first appearance in the tournament since 2005, ending a 21-year drought. It also completes a landmark "triple crown" for Indian women's football in 2026, with the Senior, U20, and U17 teams all qualifying for their respective Asian Cups in the same year.

Preparation and Form

Under the guidance of Italian head coach Pamela Conti, the "Young Tigresses" have undergone an intense four-month buildup:

Training: Three months of fitness and tactical drills primarily based in Bengaluru.

Recent Success: The squad arrives with momentum after winning the SAFF U19 Women's Championship in February and securing two victories against Myanmar in March.

Learning from Defeat: A recent three-game exposure tour in Russia helped the team adapt to the physical style of play they expect from Australia.

Coach and Player Perspectives

Coach Conti, who previously led Venezuela to a FIFA U20 World Cup, emphasized that the physical work is done and the focus is now on tactical sharpness. "We are ready... it's always a great feeling to represent a big country like India," she stated.

Abhista Basnett (15-year-old Defender): "We are playing against top teams not just in Asia, but in the world... we are going to give our all and fight."

Julan Nongmaithem (Midfielder): The only player in the squad with a senior cap, Julan noted: "Australia is a very tough team, but we also want to play tough football... the coach has told us to be brave and play without fear."

Tournament Environment

The tournament is being hosted at the world-class Suzhou Taihu Football Sports Centre, where all 12 participating teams are staying in a centralized "bubble." With perfect weather reported in Suzhou, the stage is set for the Young Tigresses to prove they belong among Asia's elite.

Having watched the Senior and U20 teams compete earlier this year, the U17 squad is determined to go one step further and aim for a knockout-stage qualification.

More than a trophy: Inside Punjab FC'S football factory

MOHALI

Punjab FC's recent 3-0 victory over Zinc Football Academy to clinch the AIFF Elite Youth League title was more than just a win, it was a loud statement about the "system" taking over the state's sporting landscape. While the silverware was earned in Garhshankar, the real work is happening in a massive network of training centers that is quietly reshaping Punjab's footballing DNA.

Just last month, the club expanded its grassroots footprint to 32 centers, launching new hubs in towns like Moga, Patiala, and Batala. Each center takes in 75 young players, including a dedicated quota for girls, ensuring that professional coaching reaches beyond the big cities.

"The aim is to create the right environment for young players to learn and enjoy the game," said Bikramjit Singh, Deputy Lead of the Football Development Centre. This isn't just about volume, it's about a unified model where a child in a small village receives the same technical training as a player in the elite academy.

The results of this long-term investment are no longer theoretical. The Punjab FC academy, rated five stars by the AIFF, has already produced 15 Indian internationals. For decades, Punjab was synonymous with hockey and kabaddi and now football is moving from the margins to the center. Training grounds that were once empty are now buzzing daily with structured sessions.

"For us, the focus has always been on building a complete development ecosystem," says Technical Director Giuseppe Cristaldi. "The expansion and the success are outcomes of the same philosophy: consistent coaching and clear pathways."
